Late entries help fill races for school board & city council

■ Ex-council member Roland Hensley, who stepped off the council in 1996, will run for a new term

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Late entrants joined the races for both West Sacramento City Council and Washington Unified School District Board of Trustees last week, raising the number of people running for office on the November 7 ballot.

In the school board race, local activist Ronna Kephart – who lists herself as a criminal intelligence specialist – and Lewis "Bud" Diamond, Jr., a programmer/analyst, joined the fray. Also running are incumbents Patricia "Pat" Flint and Evelyn "Irene" Eklund, and challengers Karl Machschefes, a teacher; B.G. "Buz" Scheuer, a retired tax consultant; and Raymund Cushing, a writer.

Seats are available on the board for three of the seven candidates. Incumbent Ed Hocking did not file for re-election.

In the city council race, retired businessman Roland Hensley has signed up to run again. Hensley resigned a city council term in 1996 for health reasons, creating the council opening that currently holds Mayor Christopher Cabaldon.

Hensley joins William G. "Bill" Kristoff, an incumbent/businessperson; Mark P. Montemayor, an incumbent/health care administrator; Oscar Villegas, a justice programs coordinator; and Jeff Henry, a project manager.

Three seats are available for the five candidates. Incumbent council member Greg Potnick did not file to run again.

No city ballot measures are scheduled for the West Sacramento ballot in this election. The county's unincorporated areas will vote on whether to raise their hotel room taxes (Measure "P"), and the cities of Davis and Woodland face local ballot measures.

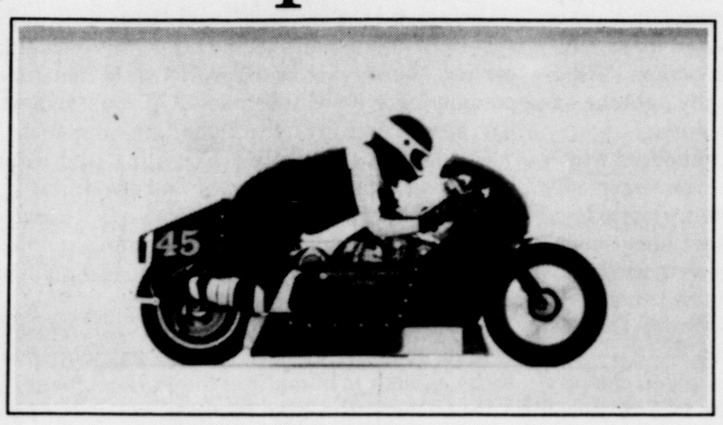
The Los Rios Community College District, which includes West Sacramento, will decide on Measure R, a $215 million facilities school bond, said Yolo County Clerk Tony Bernhard.

Topping 200 mph on two wheels

By Jeanette Keith
News-Ledger
Correspondent

West Sacramento resident Les Ranger was already registered to ride his own motorcycle at the Bonneville Land Speed Trials in Wendover, Utah when he was contacted by Tom Neimeyers from Texas. Tom was looking for someone to ride his motorcycle at Bonneville. Over the next few months and via email, Les received pictures of the bike and specified modifications that had to be done and agreed to ride for Tom.

The first time they met and Les actually saw the bike was the day before the trials began. On August 13th, he ran the M-BF 135cc motorcycle on the three mile short course where he was clocked at 149.075 mph at the quarter mile marker and set a new class record at 156.656 mph. Knowing he could get a better performance out of the bike, he and his partner, Jim Bickford, made some adjustments. The next day, he made another pass at 174.087 mph, breaking the record he had just set.



LES RANGER of West Sacramento

Setting land speed records is nothing new to Les. He has six other records of which four are at speeds in excess of 200 mph. He has been a member of the "200 MPH Club" since 1987, when he ran at 212.721 mph.

"I never thought I would have the chance to ride at Bonneville again," said Les. "Just being there felt good. If I hadn't set any records, that would have been okay. To set a record on my own bike, I needed to do 227 mph. With the bike running correctly, it was possible. The first run, I was clocked at 194.904 mph at the quarter, but at the mile I was down to 184.905 mph. We had some adjusting to do. The bike is equipped with a computer that tells us just about everything we need to know. It isn't like the old days when we had to guess at everything."

"The next day I ran at 202.981 mph," continued Les. "Then the bike developed some major problems. The bike runs on methanol and it gets very hot. If I kept running it, I knew I would have burned up. As it was, the methanol, which you cannot see burning, burned through both the asbestos shield I had around my leg and my leathers. On the third day, we parked it. But that was okay, because I had Tom's bike to run."

"I didn't set a new record on my bike," Les concluded, "but I made a dozen passes at speeds of over 175 mph and set a new class record for Tom. This was the best week I ever had at Bonneville. In previous years, I had gone up there with a win or fail attitude and gave it up in 1991. After not riding at speeds in excess of 200 mph in over nine years and thinking I would never have the chance to do it again, it was fun. I had a great time! And, it was cool to just walk through the pits and say, "We're back!"

School board looks to hire temporary superintendent soon

The Washington Unified School Board may have an interim superintendent in place about a week after the departure of current superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher, said board president Ardeene Westvik.

The board held a special meeting last Thursday partly to discuss the issue. Other personnel issues placed on the late-notice, special meeting were tabled after the board split on whether it was appropriate to tackle them.

"We decided to look into what possible questions to ask candidates at an interview," said Westvik. "We plan to do interviews on Sept. 5 and 6. We have some fairly good candidates, altogether six of them."

Westvik said an interim superintendent could be appointed soon after those interviews. Kelleher is slated to go on leave to a state job beginning Sept. 1.

The process of hiring a permanent superintendent is expected to take a number of months.

Up in flames

Firefighters quickly doused a burning tree at the corner of Jefferson Blvd. and West Capitol Ave. early Friday afternoon.

A passing pedestrian reported that the tree "just went up" in flames as she walked by, and that firefighters believed the fire started after someone carelessly tossed a cigarette into the landscaping.

Displaying Yolo

The County of Yolo has created a county exhibit for the California State Fair, which runs through Sept. 4 at Cal Expo.

The exhibit features a model canyon filled with artificial water, and a model Yolo Shortline railroad visiting different features of the county. The project was completed by volunteers.

"We invite all Yolo County residents to stop and see this year's exhibit," said Anne Harrison, county public affairs officer.

4-H Club disbands after racism charges

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento's 70-member chapter of the 4-H Club has disbanded rather than deal with probation and other restrictions placed on it by a University of California investigator who upheld complaints that its leadership showed "a definite pattern of discriminatory practices. . . against a selected group of individuals," most of whom are "ethnic minorities."

But 4-H leader Linda Davis strongly denies any such pattern, saying instead that the dispute was a personal grievance, and that the club's overseers came down hard on the West Sacramento chapter in order to protect themselves from legal liabilities.

A copy of the investigation by University of California complaint resolution officer Eugene M. Britt, though stamped "confidential," was provided to the News-Ledger by a community member who wished to remain anonymous.

Original allegations against the club were brought by Denise Masuhara and Jane Kreidler. Attempts by the News-Ledger to reach them for comment were not immediately successful.

The pair charged that West Sacramento's 4-H Club systematically failed to include their children in meetings, gave them incorrect times for meetings and discouraged them from joining certain projects.

Charges also included the use of epiphets such as "stupid Mexican" by some of the club's children.

And it charged that 4-H leader Linda Davis had broken club policy by distributing copies of the "confidential" complaint letters "under the guise of gaining support."

That, said Davis, is an example of the report's false conclusions.

"That is a lie," she said. "I was instructed by the county representative that I was required to do that."

And this is just one part of an investigation in which "the truth became a lie, and the lie became the truth." The University of California's investigator clamped down on West Sacramento's 4-H Club to forestall a costly lawsuit by the complainers.

"Our club was shafted," said Davis. "I think it is (a case of) the state running with its tail between it's legs because they don't want to pay these people any money. There was no racial discrimination – no discrimination of any kind."

"My first boyfriend was pure Japanese," she added. "I have dated boyfriends of different colors. We have other children (in the club) that are mixtures of black and white, that are Mexican-American, that are Indian. We do not discriminate."

She said that one of the complainants has a history of trouble with her outside the club – and that this trouble was brought to the 4-H Club as a continuation of that trouble.

The investigator's report noted that the club had "appeared to be functioning well" before last summer. Davis helped found the club in 1997.

Discipline against the local club included two years of probation, as well as the appointment of two co-leaders acceptable to county 4-H leaders. Instead, it has dissolved.

"The club has disbanded," said Davis. "Part of the problem is we don't have two adult leaders. No one will step forward to do that. The malcontents don't want to do it because they want to start their own club so they don't have to be on probation."

The News-Ledger also attempted to contact parents of several minority members of the club who were not among those accusing Davis of racism. Those attempts weren't immediately successful.

Cindy Tuttle -- whose child is an active club member, albeit not a member of an ethnic minority -- said that she "had never felt any exclusionary practices."

"There wouldn't even be a 4-H Club if it werent for Linda Davis," she added. "All my experience with her is positive."

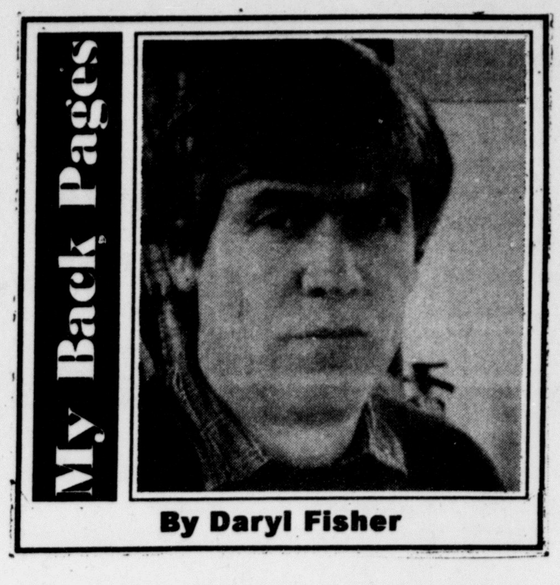
Did Don Juan, the legendary womanizer, get a bad rap?



By Daryl Fisher

Editor's note: Daryl is taking the rest of August off from column writing. The following is one of his favorites from the past.

A work friend of mine (I'll call her Annie) who is taking an English literature class two nights a week at California State University, Sacramento recently asked me if I happened to know anything about the great Romantic Poets.

"Which ones?" I asked her.

"Lord Byron, mostly," said Annie.

"Not really," I admitted.

"Well," she said, obviously unimpressed with my lack of knowledge of long dead poets, "I have to write this big paper on Don Juanism, which I've almost finished, but my professor wants me to include something about how the Romanic Poets viewed him, especially Lord Byron."

"Really?"

"Yeah, and I just hate reading Byron."

"Why is that?"

"Because he always makes his main character into one of those bigger than life Byronic heroes of his. You know, moody, passionate, mysterious, and with a self-generated moral code that stands totally outside all the ordinary and long-accepted criteria of right and wrong."

"What's so bad about that?" I asked like a fool.

"Everything!" she said with conviction. "Especially if we're talking about a totally pathetic excuse for a human being like Don Juan."

As we talked on, Annie openly wondered why a legendary hero like Don Juan, who reportedly spent the majority of his adult life trying to love, possess, conquer and consume just about every woman he encountered, could have possibly inspired so many great writers, poets and musicians, among them such giants as Milton, Dumas, Mozart and, of course, Lord Byron.

"But aren't you being a little tough on the poor guy?" I finally suggested. "I mean, I think there's a lot to be learned from reflecting on the life and times of Don Juan."

"Like what?" she asked in disbelief.

"Oh, I don't know, like what it was like to be a nobleman living in Seville back in the 1300s," I cautiously suggested.

"What else?" she quickly demanded.

"Well," I said with hesitation, "who knows, with all those experiences he had, maybe he actually ended up knowing a little something about what love is, and what it isn't."

"You've got to be kidding!", said Annie, even more surprised at me than she had been a few moments earlier. "Now what in the world could Don Juan possibly known about real love? If you'll remember, he was nothing but a legendary womanizer."

"But I don't really think Don Juan went from woman to woman because of any particular inability on his part to love," I theorized. "In fact, I wouldn't be too surprised if there were a number of other factors involved. You know, extenuating circumstances."

"Name one."

"Well, to begin with, maybe he was just never lucky enough to bump into the right woman?"

"But Daryl, the man bumped into just about every woman in Spain!"

"Well," I said, quickly searching for a more believable explanation and luckily recalling part of an old Albert Camus quote, "then maybe he just thought it wasn't essential to love rarely in order to love well?"

"You know," said Annie as she slowly shook her head from side to side and looked at me with genuine pity in her eyes, "now that kind of ridiculous reasoning is just so typical of you men. And, oh, by the way, it's also the main reason why so many of you end up getting thrown into the bowels of hell!"

Note: Just a quick update on the Grace K. Ohlson Scholarship Fund. Almost 60 donations have been received totalling more than $4,000. The goal is to raise a $10,000 endowment, with the interest earnings being used to support a $500 annual scholarship for Washington Unified School District graduates who plan on attending a college in the Los Rios Community College system. Anyone who would like to make a contribution to the fund can do so by making a check payable to the Grace K. Ohlson Scholarship Fund, c/o the News-Ledger, PO Box 463, West Sacramento, CA 95691.

The San Francisco Giants (71-52) and Arizona Diamondbacks (70-54) are going neck to neck for the Western Division crown. The Giants are holding on to a slim one game lead over the fellows from Arizona. The two meet six more times in the last two weeks of the pennant race. The second place finisher in the west will have a tough time making the playoffs from the wild card spot. The Giants will finish their current home stand against Florida before the pack up and head east for a long four game series against the Phillies starting on Friday, August 25th.

The A's (66-57), who are trying to catch the division leading Mariners (66-54), have a chance for the big payback this weekend when the New York Yankees invade the Oakland Coliseum. The Bronx Bombers will be in town for a three game series starting on Friday, Aug. 25.

The River Cats magic number is down to two and could clinch the Pacific Coast League South Division early this week. The River Cats have already started selling playoff tickets to season ticket holders. Round one of the Pacific Conference Championship series (best of 5 games) starts with game one, Wednesday, Sept. 6th, 6:30 p.m. and game two Thursday, Sept. 7th, 6:30 p.m. at Raley Field. Games 3 to 5 are scheduled for September 8-10, if necessary, at the North Division Champions stadium, which will probably be Salt Lake City.

The River Gatos lost outfielder 24-year old Eric Byrnes to the mother team. The A's called up Byrnes, who is batting a cool .346 in 58 games with the Cats. Byrnes will fill in for the injured Jeremy Giambi, who suffered a rib-cage injury. On September 1st the A's will call up a few more players to make their last push at the Western Division title. The Cats will invade their minor league teams, Modesto and Midland, to bulk up their roster for the playoffs. Call Cats box office at 447-HITS for game tickets and playoff information.

The Raiders made a strong move to strengthen their wide receiver position with the acquisition of Andre Rison. Rison, who was released by the Kansas City Chiefs, signed a one-year $500,000 contract. Next week I'll have my NFL predictions on division champions and which teams will be in Tampa Bay for the 2001 Super Bowl.

West Sacramento's Willie Jorrin is training in Los Angeles for his September 9th title fight in England. Jorrin is reported in tip-top shape and is only two pounds away from this 122-pound limit. Jorrin will have to knock out his No.1 rank opponent, Michael Brodie, who be fighting in his hometown of Manchester, England. The two warriors will be fighting for Erik Morales vacated WBC title.

See ya next week!

Playoff-bound?

As of Tuesday morning, the Sacramento River Cats magic number to clinch the Pacific Coast League's South Division and qualify for the playoffs is down to just two.

The "magic number" can be made up by any combination of wins by the River Cats or losses by the Las Vegas Stars. For instance, a win by the River Cats coupled by a loss by the Stars with ensure the River Cats a playoff berth.

The River Cats are 11 games ahead of the second-place Las Vegas Stars in the PCL's South Division and they are scheduled to meet eight more times during the season's final month (August 24-27 in Sacramento and September 1-4 in Las Vegas).

Should the River Cats qualify for the postseason, they will play the winner of the PCL's North Division (Salt Lake, Tacoma, Edmonton, Calgary) in a best-of-five-series September 6-10. road.

Advertisers' Corner:

For lunch, try 'Helen's Picnic Place'—

(Note: Below is the latest in a series of News-Ledger profiles of our advertisers. Enjoy!)

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Helen Merkley was born in Denver, Colorado but she moved to West Sacramento when she was only six weeks old.

"My parents had relatives who lived in Broderick and Bryte," recalled Helen, "and as far back as I can remember, West Sacramento has always been home to me."

When Helen was young, she attended local elementary schools (Washington & West Acres) and like most of the young people of her era, she had to travel by bus to Woodland to go to high school. After she graduated, she married Robert Merkley.

"My husband was a farmer," remembered Helen, "and over the years, I guess I did just about everything you can think of when it comes to farm life. I plowed fields, stacked hay, drove trucks, took care of animals, went back and forth for machinery spare parts, you name it. It's a good life, but it's an awful lot of hard work, too."

Helen has never had a problem with working hard and after her marriage ended, her job resume quickly began to grow and grow.

"Let's see," said Helen with a smile, "looking back on it, I guess I've done a little bit of just about everything. I worked at the old Crocker bank for more than 20 years as a teller and secretary; I managed a makeup company for awhile; I was in the construction business for a number of years; then I did some more banking; I was an accounting technician for the East Yolo Community Services District; I worked in sales for Sears; and I also sold clothes on consignment and ran a deli in Sacramento for about five years. I've done a lot of other stuff, too, but those are the ones that quickly come to mind."

Darrel Atkinson & Helen Merkley present a check to Mickey Fausett of the West Sacramento Historical Society. The pair's restaurant sponsored a raffle to benefit the historical society's monument for the Pony Express.

In the early 1970s, Helen's mother, Jessie Lukins, got together with Darrel Atkinson's Aunt Geneva, and came up with the idea that Helen's daughter, Amronette, ought to marry Darrel.

"It was a conspiracy, plain and simple," recalled Darrel with a big laugh. "I was a poor country boy from Biggs, California, population 784, and the next thing I knew, they had me married and working with Helen in the family businesses."

A couple of years ago, Helen and Darrel decided they'd like to give the restaurant business a try.

"At first," explained Helen, "we thought about setting up a lunch and dinner business on the Elizabeth Louise, which is a paddle boat that runs up and down the Sacramento River, but we ran into a docking problem, so when the opportunity to create Helen's Picnic Place here on Merkley Avenue came up, we jumped at it."

"Abby's Interiors had been at this location for about 12 years," said Darrel, "so it took quite a bit of work and almost seven months to get the building the way we wanted it. Walls had to be torn down and I put in new ceilings, plumbing, larger doors for the handicapped, and a new bathroom and kitchen."

Opening Day for Helen's Picnic Place was February 10, 1999 and its list of satisfied customers has been slowly growing ever since.

"The prices are reasonable, the atmosphere is very homey, the food is good and hearty, and the soups are excellent," said Cindy Tuttle, former Mayor of West Sacramento. "My mother is a regular at Helen's, too."

"I have lunch at Helen's almost every day," said longtime West Sacramento resident Verna Ellis. "It's a delightful place to eat and visit with friends. I really like the way they season their mini-burgers. Plus they have all kinds of specialty coffees which seem to be very popular with everyone."

"They have really great sandwiches at Helen's," said local attorney Fidel Martinez, whose law offices are right next door to the restaurant. "Their meatloaf sandwich is excellent and the service is always really good, too."

Darrel does most of the shopping for Helen's Picnic Place and nothing is ever delivered to the restaurant.

"I go out every morning and hand-pick all of the meats and vegetables we plan on using that day," explained Darrel. "We have some great recipes for the food we serve and we want to make sure everything is top-quality and fresh."

"We specialize in tasty, healthy lunches," added Helen, "and we like our customers to come in early and stay late. We're open Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and we also serve candlelight suppers every Saturday night from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.. We have a five year lease, so we plan on being here for quite awhile, and I hope all of your readers will drop on by and let us serve them one of the best lunches they've ever had."

Helen has two grandchildren (Darrel's daughters Monica and Melissa). She also has five great-grandchildren.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Wake up and smell the -- well, you know

Admittedly, deciding how West Sacramento's future sewage needs will be met isn't an issue with a lot of sex appeal. Perhaps this is why this big decision hasn't caught the public's attention.

Bill Kristoff and other city council members would like that to change. "Speak now or forever hold your peace," is essentially their message.

"This is such a big and important issue," Kristoff commented yesterday, "but it just hasn't connected with the public yet."

Yet to be decided is whether West Sacramento should build an expanded sewage plant of its own, or hook up to Sacramento County's plant.

West Sacramentans have a history of distrust for their eastern neighbors – a history that complicates what might otherwise be a simple choice.

That's why the two key issues, says Kristoff, are price and local control.

Which is more important to you?

Adding to the issues is a desire by Sacramento to serve its developing Natomas area by running a sewage line through West Sacramento on its way to Elk Grove. This would save Sacramento from having to dig up much of its highly urban downtown area to make way for the "interceptor" line.

Are we willing to play host to this pipeline? If so, what should we negotiate in return?

There's still time to get involved; the city will schedule future workshops for you. Watch for more information here. And if you plan on being a future local sewage customer, you'd be wise to pay attention.

On a related note, a "little bird" at city hall noted privately last week that there is no way in heck the city council will make its final choice on the sewage options before the November election.

Seems like a safe bet.

Waste hookup a big issue!

It is bigger than the Palamidessi Bridge, the River Walk Park and Raley Field combined. The issue is should West Sacramento hook up to the Sacramento County Regional Waste Plant?

The real and only question is will the citizens of West Sacramento give up their autonomy? I for one will not. We West Sacramentans fought very long and hard to win our autonomy. We incorporated to get out of Yolo County. What have we gained if we now let Sacramento County rule over us?

If we choose to hook up it is certain we will have rate increases in the very near future and beyond. There are new state and federal wastewater treatment regulations that must be met and paid for now. Sacramento County uses a one tier system for rate increases. All cities in the region get the same increases, including West Sacramento if we hook up.

Sacramento has an advantage. Example: Rate increases of fifty cents each spread out over a million people generates a lot of money for Sacramento. So it doesn't hurt, but a fifty cent increase spread out over 30k people does hurt. And what if Roseville or Citrus Heights need a new system and so on and on.

They can sink us. Be careful, my friends. Big brother Sacramento wants us in a position where they can claim immanent domain of our riverfront. Why will they not let us have a state building on our riverfront? Greed. There is no other answer.

And don't let our city council sell us out on this one. Think about who stands to gain the most from this. Remember the words of Grace Ohlson, "Somebody has to look out for the average citizen and hold politicians accountable." Government should not be a career, because when it is, the people get sold out.

Time is running out. Sacramento County must know from us by November, 2000. They have two choices. Either run it through downtown Sacramento or through West Sacramento. Council members say no matter what we do we will have rate increases. That is true. Time is running out for us, too. Our own wastewater plan must be enlarged to handle our growth. Arlington Oaks must have their waste system. We must meet new state and federal regulations. To pay for all this, we must increase our rates.

If our city council votes to hook up, we hold the cards in this issue. We need to demand that our council have courage to stand fast in negotiating the terms!

1. That our rates are locked into our cost of living.
2. That we have two members on the Sacramento Waste Water Board (Sacramento has two).
3. They must give Arlington Oaks its waste system.
4. They must run two street pipes down our existing Sycamore Street drainage, not down 5th Street. And pave a road over the top of Sycamore.
5. That our employees at our wastewater plant do not lose their seniority benefits.
6. That our hook up costs are waived. Their benefits from this are so high, especially with the expansion of Natomas to the airport, that they can afford to give us our just dues.

Remember, we hold the cards in this one. If they refuse any of these, we refuse. If they threaten us with eminent domain and take it down 5th Street, let them. We sue and hold it up for 10 years. Remember, they threatened us with eminent domain before. We stood fast and put in 11 miles of our own pipe.

I am putting this issue before you most strongly because some of our city council members have stated they are concerned that the people have not responded to this issue and don't realize how important it is.

I urge you to let our city council know by voice, email, and letters unanimously and with one voice that we will not give up our independence. Our autonomy is not for sale. We will bare the cost of our own waste, no one else's.

Vote Democratic

After a lifetime of watching Republicans in action, nothing surprises me. I used to think they were shamelessly selfish but I've come to realize they are just clueless. With a few exceptions, they are shallow, superficial and at times patently stupid. Still, they have managed to sink to a new low with a 15 minute ad (think tirade) from the NRA featuring guess who. It was aired on Channel 13 last Sunday. Whoa! Where is the FCC when you need them? Charlatan -- I mean Charlton is famous for his dramatic excesses but these particular paranoid ravings really crossed the line. It was a thinly veiled, almost transparent, call for public violence and a threat to President Clinton's life.

Heston is more than an over-the-hill hambone; it's straight jacket time. I wonder if he taped this message before or after his recent commitment to an alcoholic rehab hospital? So Heston's on the sauce but what's the NRA's excuse? If these guys are so impotent they need an arsenal of assault weapons to prove their manhood, why don't they just take a double dose of Viagra and stop endangering the rest of us.

The NRA boasts "they will be working out of the President's office" if George, Jr. becomes President. That would be a thrill a minute. As an extra bonus, another venomous old snake, Jesse Helms, will continue to flip off the whole world and scuttle the Nuclear Arms Treaty. Imagine the fun of dodging both bombs and bullets.

It's time for a reality check. George Bush is not, by any stretch of the imagination, qualified to be the leader of the free world. He's a nice guy but 98% of the American population fits that description. Allow me to exercise my woman's prerogative to be slightly irrational. One President, L.B.J., from Texas is enough for me. I don't like the way he took office. The President I voted for left Dallas in a coffin. I've often wondered if Johnson's push for civil rights was a desperate bid for atonement because he was tormented by a guilty conscience. L.B.J. was a very ruthless human being.

George, Jr. warns "Don't mess with Texas". Jesse Jackson retorts "O.K., George, but don't mess with America". I agree. Bush can have Texas. Since anyone, and everyone, is allowed to tote a gun there (even to church) it would be a perfect place to send all gun lovers. There's plenty of room for red necks, gang bangers, crips, bloods, skin heads, serial killers, hit men, drug runners, survivalists, Mexican mafia, "soprano" types, rogue cops, crazy stalkers and pathetic cowards that kill animals for sport (as opposed to a need for sustenance). They could get down and dirty. Lock and load. Relive the Alamo. Have duels and drive-bys. Every day would be a blood bath. It would be pig heaven.

Of course there are many great politicos from Texas like Molly Ivins, Ann Richards, Sheila Jackson, and millions of wonderful Texans both past and present. It's ridiculous to indict an entire state because I can't quite get over what happened there one black November day so many years ago. Bobby Kennedy was gunned down in California and it would be terrible if our fellow Americans held us, as residents, responsible. But Texas (and a well known block of Southern states) has remained such a neanderthal drag on our country's progress. The GOP's slimy standard bearers like Tom Delay, Dick Armey and Bob Barr are lying low, just waiting to crawl out of the woodwork if the two Texas oil tycoons (Bush and Cheney) move their boots into the White House. The Supreme Court appointments alone could set us back 40 years.

When I look at Al and Tipper Gore, as well as Joe and Hadessah Lieberman, I see people that share my values. Every Democrat needs to grab a few swing voters by the hand and pull, push or even carry them piggy back to the polls. Remember, a vote for Ralph Nader is counter productive because it only helps elect Bush. There is only one name on the ballot that counts -- it's simple -- let Al do it. Keep hope alive.
